They're going to compare us to that really talented girl

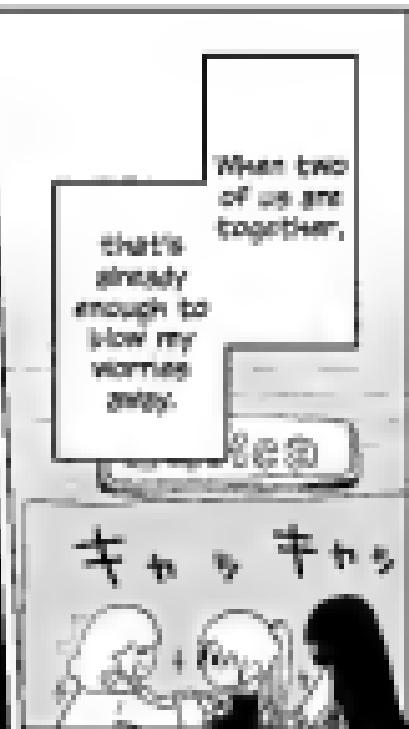

* Benja Challenge is an underground shopping concourse in Fukusaki

If all three of us are together...

That's already enough to blow my worries away.

When two of us are together,

We might be able to reach her.

CAN'T YOU
AT LEAST
GIVE ME A NEW SONG OR A NEW OUTFIT?

IT'S NOT LIKE I'M BEING OVERLY SELFISH.

DON'T YOU THINK IT'D FEEL BETTER

IF I
END UP BEING THE CHUBBIEST-LOOKING GIRL
THERE...

CONTINUOUS DIALOGUE WITH MILLION DOLL

(Please click here)

The board is where the MillionDollBoard DD editor will come to explain the terminology that appears in articles. There are extremely subjective definitions, so if there was some from the real definition or recommendation, I'd be happy to add it.

[1/1] ♦ Million Doll Idol Terminology ♦

1: Stage Outfits

Stage outfits are the "tools of the trade" for Idols! Fashionable outfits provide support for an Idol's popularity, and can be considered one of their most important features.

There are many tearjerking tales of unpopular or underground Idols who wear the same outfit every day, causing it to reek of sweat and get worn out. Or their mothers painstakingly stitch one piece by piece.

On the other hand, some famous Idols have a new outfit made for them every time they appear on TV. There are around 4,500 outfits created each year for these big league idols to wear for concerts or media appearances.

If budget permits, the members of a group will all have their own personalized outfits, hair accessories, and shoes. It's fun to look at the different details.

Stage outfits increase enjoyment of idols for both genders. To guys, they make Idols look more attractive. To girls, they illustrate recent fashion trends or cosplay ideas.
